This is the seventh of a series of fifteen industrial articles which will be published in the Dispatch, one each week for the next 15 weeks, for the purpose of outlining to our local people and the outside world the vast field of resources and opportunities existing here for advancement and success and for the promotion of optimism and the right psychology. The facts contained in these articles are absolutely reliable and gathered by expert publicists who have had many years experience in the business.

The Dispatch, throughout this period, will make an effort to show that there is not a section of the country in the West or the Northwest that offers a wider field of endeavor than Crow Wing county. Every phase of industrial life and business activity will be covered in a thorough and constructive manner.

The carrying out of this campaign has been made possible by many of the leading business institutions of Brainerd, one of the leading commercial centers of the state and located in a banner county. After reading this article turn to the industrial pages and see who these progressive firms are which so willingly have come to the assistance of this enterprise. Every reader of the Dispatch can assist very materially in the campaign by sending his own copy of the paper to a relative or friend in some other section of the country after he has completed reading it, that this relative or friend may learn of the opportunities in this splendidly productive section.

BRAINERD DISPATCH COMPANY

By R. KENNETH EVANS

Development of the Cuyuna iron range is still in the initial stage despite the fact that operations have been carried on to some extent for the past twelve years. Due to certain geological formations and structure, rendering it more accessible, the Mesaba range has been subjected to much greater development and is much better known to the world at large than the Cuyuna range. While it is probable, according to the present knowledge of the deposits contained, that the range in which Brainerd is located will never become as rich a producer as the Mesaba, yet it is now certain that vast deposits are accessible for mining at a profit and will add to the wealth of this region in succeeding years.

The Cuyuna iron ore district lies in Aitkin, Crow Wing and Morrison counties of the state of Minnesota. The developed part of this area, however lies wholly within southerly portion of Crow Wing county and it is probable that the other sections of the range will never approach the areas contained in Crow Wing in the richness of their deposits or their accessibility. The Crow Wing district crosses the county in a North-South direction, practically parallel with the Mississippi river. The Brainerd-Duluth branch of the Northern Pacific railroad is also practically parallel to this course and, in addition it divides the Crow Wing Cuyuna district into two geographic divisions. That portion of the district lying north of the railroad is known locally as the North Range, and correspondingly, that portion lying south is known as the South Range. There appears to be no geological differences between these two subdivisions.

Practically all of the commercially important part of the Cuyuna range lies within Crow Wing county and the part designated above as the South Range lies wholly within it. The North Range is an area, elliptical in shape, chiefly centered around Crosby and Ironton. Crosby, Ironton, Cuyuna, Riverton, Manganese and Trommald all lie with the extent of the commercially important region of the North Range and have developed largely through the mining industry. The three towns of Woodrow, Barrows and Oreland lie within the commercially important area of the South Range, which is in extent some thirty miles long and about two miles wide. Most of the development has taken place in the North Range up to this time, the mining operations in the South Range being of comparatively recent date.

The Cuyuna district is unique because there are practically no rock outcrops which point directly to its location, or even to its existence, and the facts pertaining to the district have been deduced with rare exceptions from drill hole records. Up to date about 5,000 holes have been drilled and more is being learned concerning the entire area each year. As there are no outcroppings signs of iron bearing strata, it was due to the deductions of a prominent geologist that this region was first prospected.

In 1885, Professor R. D. Irving, of the University of Wisconsin, mapped the area embracing the present Cuyuna district as being an iron bearing series. The map was published by Irving and Van Hise in 1892 in a Geological Survey Monograph. Irving based his supposition on the rock structure in the iron ore ranges south of Lake Superior, and the age of the rocks so conspicuously exposed between Carlton and Little Falls in Minnesota. In 1903, Professor C. K. Leith, of the University of Wisconsin, published the U. S. Geological Survey Monograph No. 43 on the Mesaba iron bearing range of Minnesota, and on one page showed a sketch in which for the first time a hypothetical course for a possible existing iron bearing formation in Crow Wing county and other neighboring counties was outlined, basing his opinion for this course on the general rock structure of the Lake Superior region and guided by the southerly quartzite exposures at Dam Lake, Aitkin county, and the northerly ones at Prairie Falls and Grand Rapids, Itasca county, and a quartzite outcrop at Boy River, Cass county.

Previous to this strong magnetic variations in Crow Wing county had been reported off and on, but it was not until 1904 that the extensive and regularity of these magnetic variations on a compass and dip needle were made note of, and it was then that Cuyler Adams, of Deerwood, made a general survey of some parts of the district and kept his information from the public until sufficient lands were brought under his control and a churn drill had been put into operation by him and iron-bearing formation rocks encountered thereby actually bringing the area before the public as a probably new source for iron ores.

The district was named Cuyuna by Mr. Adams, "Cuy" being the first half of his christian name, and "Una" the name of the pet dog which accompanied him on his survey, the syllables together apparently forming an Indian name and quite appropriate for the purpose intended.

It is now known that the geological succession of the strata forming the Cuyuna range is as follows: 1. Glacial, 2. Cretaceous, 3. Keweenaw, 4. Upper Huronian. It is in the Upper Huronian series that iron-bearing formations are found. This series is a lithologically varied slate formation with inter-bedded iron-bearing formation material. All strata of this series have been exposed.

KNUTSON SAYS HE WILL NOT BE A SOLON CANDIDATE

REPUBLICAN WHIP OF THE HOUSE MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT TODAY

SAYS A SUFFICIENT NUMBER HAVE ALREADY ENGAGED IN THE CAMPAIGN

Washington, May 28.—Representative Harold Knutson of Minnesota, republican whip of the house, today announced he would not be a candidate for the seat of the late Senator Knute Nelson.

A statement issued from his office here said:

"After a careful analysis of the senatorial situation, I have decided not to be a candidate in the coming senatorial primary in our state. A sufficient number have already engaged in the campaign, and the cost would be too great. The voters already have a sufficiently large field from which to make a selection and an additional number would be confusing the situation."

Burnquist Enters Race

St. Paul, May 28.—Former Governor J. A. Burnquist entered the senatorial race today.

He is the seventh republican seeking the nomination for the place of the late Senator Knute Nelson.

"As long as they are all getting in, I might as well get in too," he said. Mr. Burnquist will file today or tomorrow. Tomorrow is the last day for filings. The primary is June 18. Entrance of Mr. Burnquist in the race was understood to be agreeable to the representatives of Governor Preus. Burnquist is expected to split the anti-administration vote in St. Paul, which otherwise might largely draw to Judge Oscar Hallam.

The light wine and beer issue is bound to be injected into the campaign, and may cause a fight. Should it develop much importance, former Congressman Andrew J. Volstead, father of the enforcement act, may be induced to do some campaigning. Minnesota was one of the first states to favor prohibition. The legislature, while Burnquist was governor, passed a state prohibition law, anticipating the provisions of the Volstead act. Mr. Burnquist today, however, pointed out that the legislation was in such form that he was not required either to sign or veto it.

Lundeen in Statement

Ernest Lundeen, former Minneapolis congressman, injected the prohibition argument in a statement he made public today:

"I favor sane and sensible temperance legislation," he said. "I believe that an American should have the right to eat and drink whatever he pleases, and if that includes light wines and beer, I am for light wines and beer. Personally, I care nothing for light wines and beer nor have I ever used any form of intoxicating liquor. My comrades in the army will testify to that."

Senator James A. Carley, Plainview, was in town today ready to file for the democratic nomination if no opposition develops. Senator Carley made it plain that he will not stand in the way of anyone else who wants the democratic nomination. He will wait until the last to see what develops.

Judge Oscar Hallam's "Hallam for Senator" club was growing today. Advertising started, and Charles W. Sterling, Hallam's campaign manager, said the first call for members brought a "fine response."

Powers Opens Headquarters

Victor Power, mayor of Hibbing, was to open campaign headquarters today. He is also seeking the republican nomination.

Congressman Sydney Anderson, one of the first to file, continued to campaign in his own district. There

13 DEAD IN WEEK END RIOTS IN THE RUHR; TENSION IS NOW LESS

(By United Press) Dusseldorf, May 28.—With 13 dead in week end riots in the Ruhr, reports throughout the valley today indicated the tension is lessening at least for the moment.

In Bochum communists besieged the municipal officials and assumed practical control of the city after gaining the upper hand.

The French at Essen are reported to have seized several million paper marks, following repeated refusals of German officials to pay certain occupation expenses.

Workers held peaceful demonstrations in many cities during the night. Officials fears, however, that the lull is only temporary, and that a renewal of uprisings may be made.

Must Go to Work or Be Banished

Berlin, May 28.—French officials are moving to stop the spread of strikes of workers in the Ruhr district, according to word received here today.

General DeGoutte is said to have ordered German railway men throughout the Ruhr region to return to their jobs within two days or be banished from the district.

Revolutionary Uprisings

Berlin, May 28.—Thirty communists and civilians have been killed in revolutionary uprisings in the Ruhr district this week, the Vossische Zeitung estimated today.

WANT FORD TO PLAY THE GAME

IF HE BEHAVES, DEMOCRATIC POLITICIANS SAY HE CAN BE VICE PRESIDENT

(Copyright 1923 by United Press)

Washington, May 28.—If Henry Ford will play the game according to the rules democratic politicians laid down for him, he could have the democratic nomination for vice president in 1924.

Ford will refuse the vice presidential nomination if it is offered to him. He will refuse to play the political game according to any set of ancient rules made by party politicians. He does not take much stock in party loyalty, party services, or even parties, by all of which the politicians set great store.

Democratic politicians are worried about the "Ford-for-President" movement which their experienced observers tell them is sweeping the south and middle west portions of the United States. Probably the democratic party has given Ford's possibilities little consideration, but privately leading Democrats have given earnest consideration to means of making Ford conform to custom. Two of these are:

1. Establish himself as a "regular democrat" in good standing, and by performing services for the party show himself entitled to party honors.

2. He will then announce himself as a democratic nominee. They cannot figure out a way to do either, simply because Ford will not play politics the way the politicians are used to playing it.

Recognizing Ford's popular strength, various democratic candidates have asked him to accept the presidential nomination, but they have received no encouragement. Ford has said he is not interested in the presidency. The politicians do not believe him, but they know he is not interested in the vice presidency.

was a well-founded rumor at the capitol today that friends of Governor Preus were considering a plan to seek Anderson's withdrawal just before the primary. Both will be representing the same element in the republican party, and both are of the same religious belief.

SCALDED IN CLOUD OF LIVE STEAM

(By United Press) New York, May 28.—Scalding in a cloud of live steam, Hugh Kirk, engineer of a homeward bound "picnic train" wrecked in Van Cortland Park, New York, warned rescuers away.

"I am going to die soon anyway," he said. "Please keep back. This boiler is liable to explode any minute."

One man crawled into the cab and attempted to extricate the engineer but failed. He was badly burned and was blistered about the hands and face. Rescuers finally removed Kirk, but he died a few minutes later.

Nine passengers were slightly injured by the wreck. A timber placed across the rails by boys playing bandits is believed to have caused the wreck.

K. K. K. IN WEEK END MEETINGS

IN OPEN DEFIANCE OF NEW YORK STATE LAW REGARDING ROSTER PUBLICITY

(By United Press) New York, May 28.—Thousands of white-robed members of the Ku Klux Klan convened in week-end meetings held all the way across New York state, from Niagara Falls to Eastport, Long Island, today, in open defiance of the new state law which compels filing with the secretary of state the roster of secret societies such as the Klan.

Klansmen filed before altars draped with the American flag and pledged themselves to uphold the constitution of the Klan. They declared that Governor Al Smith of New York state virtually signed political death warrant so far as his presidential aspirations were concerned by directing a state-wide movement directed against the Klan.

Information came from Edwardsville, near the scene of the robbery, indicating several members of the gang were seen in that city Saturday. Police have ordered that members of the gang be rounded up.

LAFOLLETTE FIGHT FOR HIGHER RAIL VALUATION IS ON

DETAILS OF CAMPAIGN PLACED BEFORE THE AMERICAN PUBLIC

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION WILL BE ASKED FOR FIGURES

Chicago, May 28.—Senator Robert M. La Follette's fight on higher railroad valuation was placed before the American public today.

Delegates to the national conference on railroad valuation, including congressmen, state officials and public and private organization leaders carried home a program outlined in the conference here last week, and set out to line up state governments and organizations in their territory to back the movement.

The next step will be before the Interstate Commerce Commission, which is valuing the railroads. Demands will be made for figures on the original valuation of lines as well as the reconstruction cost. La Follette charged that leaders of the roads are supporting a move to demand a $10,000,000,000 valuation and a $500,000,000 rate increase.

As a sequel to the conference here last week representatives of railway unions and brotherhoods are considering a legislative program which is reported to include abolition of the United States Railroad Labor Board, or radical curtailment of its powers.

SUBURBAN AND BUS COLLIDE

SEVEN KILLED, 20 HURT IN SUBURBS OF DETROIT, MICHIGAN

(By United Press) Detroit, Mich., May 28.—Seven persons were killed and 20 hurt, none seriously, when an interurban crashed into a bus in the suburbs here last night.

The accident occurred when the driver of a bus containing five persons grew impatient and turned to the left from behind a stalled automobile on to the interurban tracks. The engine of the bus was torn loose and landed in another car, killing two of the occupants. The injured were motorists who were struck by flying splinters and panic-stricken people on the interurban who jumped through the windows.

(By United Press) Chicago, May 28.—A women's national cooperative marketing association to handle the eggs of the country was formed here today under the direction of the National Farm Bureau Federation.

In a conference of leading egg producers within the bureau organization it was decided they could triple their profits and reduce prices to the consumer from 5 to 10c per dozen by handling eggs through a cooperative marketing organization.

As women usually have charge of egg business on farms it was decided to place the marketing organization in their hands.

Ford has said he is not interested in the presidency. The politicians do not believe him, but they know he is not interested in the vice presidency.

was a well-founded rumor at the capitol today that friends of Governor Preus were considering a plan to seek Anderson's withdrawal just before the primary. Both will be representing the same element in the republican party, and both are of the same religious belief.

CAPT. W. H. FAWCETT IS HOST SATURDAY EVENING AT RESORT

DELICIOUS DINNER IS SERVED WITH SUPERB APPOINTMENTS AND VIANDS

FOLLOWING DINNER, THE GUESTS ENJOYED A DANCE AT THE PAVILION

Some eighty Brainerd people enjoyed the hospitality of Breezy Point lodge, through the courtesy of its owner, Capt. Wm. H. Fawcett, on Saturday evening, being guests at a special dinner and dance opening the official summer season.

The delicious dinner merits special mention, with its superb appointments and toothsome viands. The chef outdid himself in his art, and many were the favorable comments on his work.

Although the dinner was scheduled for 6:30, the guests arrived early and were entertained with an inspection tour of the grounds, which are extensive and provide nearly every form of entertainment, including golf, tennis, quoits, trapshooting, in addition to many water sports.

Captain Fawcett welcomed his guests in an appropriate manner, expressing his gratification at the large number present, which he stated, was more than he had anticipated. R. R. Wise replied for the Brainerd contingent, praising Mr. Fawcett's hospitality very highly.

Following the dinner, the guests enjoyed a dance, Knapp's orchestra being engaged for the occasion.

Mr. Fawcett has made a large investment at Breezy Point Lodge, his improvements ranking among the best in the state, and Brainerd people voiced their appreciation of this fact in turning out in force Saturday evening. Among those present were the following:

SCALDED IN CLOUD OF LIVE STEAM

(By United Press) New York, May 28.—Scalding in a cloud of live steam, Hugh Kirk, engineer of a homeward bound "picnic train" wrecked in Van Cortland Park, New York, warned rescuers away.

"I am going to die soon anyway," he said. "Please keep back. This boiler is liable to explode any minute."

One man crawled into the cab and attempted to extricate the engineer but failed. He was badly burned and was blistered about the hands and face. Rescuers finally removed Kirk, but he died a few minutes later.

Nine passengers were slightly injured by the wreck. A timber placed across the rails by boys playing bandits is believed to have caused the wreck.

K. K. K. IN WEEK END MEETINGS

IN OPEN DEFIANCE OF NEW YORK STATE LAW REGARDING ROSTER PUBLICITY

(By United Press) New York, May 28.—Thousands of white-robed members of the Ku Klux Klan convened in week-end meetings held all the way across New York state, from Niagara Falls to Eastport, Long Island, today, in open defiance of the new state law which compels filing with the secretary of state the roster of secret societies such as the Klan.

Klansmen filed before altars draped with the American flag and pledged themselves to uphold the constitution of the Klan. They declared that Governor Al Smith of New York state virtually signed political death warrant so far as his presidential aspirations were concerned by directing a state-wide movement directed against the Klan.

SEARCHING FOR GANGSTER BAND

RECESSES OF ST. LOUIS UNDERWORLD ARE BEING HONEY-COMBED

(By United Press) St. Louis, May 28.—Authorities are searching the recesses of the St. Louis underworld today for members of a notorious band of gangsters who are believed to have participated in the hold-up of the Staunton, Illinois, postmaster Saturday night, escaping with a $45,000 payroll intended for the Mount Olive & Staunton Coal company.

Information came from Edwardsville, near the scene of the robbery, indicating several members of the gang were seen in that city Saturday. Police have ordered that members of the gang be rounded up.

LAFOLLETTE FIGHT FOR HIGHER RAIL VALUATION IS ON

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION WILL BE ASKED FOR FIGURES

(By United Press) Chicago, May 28.—Senator Robert M. La Follette's fight on higher railroad valuation was placed before the American public today.

Delegates to the national conference on railroad valuation, including congressmen, state officials and public and private organization leaders carried home a program outlined in the conference here last week, and set out to line up state governments and organizations in their territory to back the movement.

The next step will be before the Interstate Commerce Commission, which is valuing the railroads. Demands will be made for figures on the original valuation of lines as well as the reconstruction cost. La Follette charged that leaders of the roads are supporting a move to demand a $10,000,000,000 valuation and a $500,000,000 rate increase.

As a sequel to the conference here last week representatives of railway unions and brotherhoods are considering a legislative program which is reported to include abolition of the United States Railroad Labor Board, or radical curtailment of its powers.

SUBURBAN AND BUS COLLIDE

SEVEN KILLED, 20 HURT IN SUBURBS OF DETROIT, MICHIGAN

(By United Press) Detroit, Mich., May 28.—Seven persons were killed and 20 hurt, none seriously, when an interurban crashed into a bus in the suburbs here last night.

The accident occurred when the driver of a bus containing five persons grew impatient and turned to the left from behind a stalled automobile on to the interurban tracks. The engine of the bus was torn loose and landed in another car, killing two of the occupants. The injured were motorists who were struck by flying splinters and panic-stricken people on the interurban who jumped through the windows.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATION TO COOPERATE ON EGGS

(By United Press) Chicago, May 28.—A women's national cooperative marketing association to handle the eggs of the country was formed here today under the direction of the National Farm Bureau Federation.

In a conference of leading egg producers within the bureau organization it was decided they could triple their profits and reduce prices to the consumer from 5 to 10c per dozen by handling eggs through a cooperative marketing organization.

As women usually have charge of egg business on farms it was decided to place the marketing organization in their hands.

She gave the message of the National Convention at Des Moines viz the entering of the United States into a permanent court of international justice.

It has been planned at headquarters that Minnesota should get and present to the United States congress and to President Harding, one mile of signatures of Minnesota voters urging this point.

These lists will be circulated in Brainerd in the near future preceded by a full explanation of the same.

A resume of the legislation on Welfare work and protection of women workers was given also.

A rising vote of appreciation was given Miss Harrison for her efforts, the Women Voters realizing how hard it must have been for her to leave her busy office to come here.

Several local matters were discussed and at the conclusion the following resolution was adopted. "Worth His Weight In Gold"

"About $45,000 worth of gold weighs as much as the average American. Four per cent interest on $45,000 is $1,800 a year."

So, from an investment standpoint, anyone earning $1,800 a year is "worth his weight in gold." However, ultimate worth depends more on savings than on earnings. Most people can save their weight in gold if they will acquire the thrift habit early in life and handle their surplus wisely. Have you begun?

MINING OF CUYUNA IRON RANGE DESCRIBED

tremely and intricately folded into a series of parallel anticlines mostly of low pitch but with steep dips. Throughout these folds, there have been intrusions of basic rocks. There has been considerable fracturing and minute faulting and there has been much re-cementing by quartz. Erosion has removed a great thickness of the slate member and thereby exposed the iron-bearing strata, making conditions favorable for concentration and the development of the ores at exposed surfaces. Weathering has greatly affected all exposed rocks. The deposits left by the glaciers exceeded in degree the erosion they accomplished and it is probable that only a small part of the ore bodies have been carried away.

Due to the geological structure the size of the ore-bearing bodies is very irregular. The average commercially valuable deposit is usually, however, limited to a half mile in length. The greatest width known of any one deposit is between four and five hundred feet. Such a width is exceptional and this is characteristic of the North Range deposits, the average width of which is anywhere from 100 to 200 feet. On the South Range 300 feet is the maximum width and the average width is in the neighborhood of 100 feet. The greatest depth known is 1,100 feet and is also an exception to the rule. Very much greater depths have been obtained throughout on the North Range than on the South. On the former it is a common occurrence to find commercial grade ores at a depth of 500 feet, but on the South Range conditions have not been determined so completely.

The Cuyuna ores are mostly of the hydrous and the silicious limonites of red, brown and black color, and when not very silicious the ores are earthy. Some of the ores are hematites, and these are characteristic of the North Range deposits. The brown and black ore are characteristic of the south range deposits, and these are more or less magnetic. The North Range also contains large areas of highly manganiferous ore. This latter fact is what renders the Cuyuna range distinctive as such quantities of manganiferous ores are not to be found elsewhere. In past years this fact has prevented development of the ore bodies of this section rather than helped it. The manufacturers of iron were bound by custom in the composition of their iron and this composition did not call for the use of manganiferous ores. They were loath to change their habits for something they knew nothing of and the success of which was uncertain in their minds. It has now been shown, however, that the presence of manganese in iron ore makes for a smoother furnace operation, acting as does a catalyst on the system. As a small amount of the manganese stays in the pig iron, when the pig iron is later remelted and is passed through the rolling mill that operation is likewise facilitated. The manganese renders the metal more cohesive, preventing any of the pig iron from sticking to the rollers. Since this discovery there has been a great demand for manganiferous ore and has made possible the development of such deposits in the Cuyuna range. The largest tonnage of manganiferous ore in the world in any one mine is located at Riverton in the Sagamore mine. Altogether there are four open pits in the entire Cuyuna range where manganiferous ore is the principal product.

The ore bodies are usually encased in a varying amount of lean iron-bearing material, which usually grades into the barren phases of the Cuyuna slate strata or intrusives. The shape of the ore bodies excludes the idea that they were originally deposited in place contemporaneously with the enclosing rock. Their persistent occurrence near the erosion surface would seem to show a secondary development in the nature of a concentration by meteoric waters, and the fact that the iron and silica content varies with the depth is suggestive of a secondary enrichment. This alteration was caused by the percolation downwards of meteoric waters bearing oxygen which altered the iron carbonate with which they came in contact, precipitating the iron directly as the hydrated or non-hydrated iron oxide. The carbon dioxide was liberated, some of it going into solution together with silica which was being dissolved during the processes.

Due to the rock structure the underground method of mining will probably always be used, although this is naturally not the cheapest method of mining. In the development of the properties to date, however, there have been no great difficulties to overcome in reaching the ore bodies and the presence of water has not been bothersome to any unusual extent. Indeed some of the mines have been practically free from this usual accompaniment of underground operations. It does not seem to be likely that the district will become known other than a field for a medium grade of ore, but although the ore is not of the highest quality regarding its iron content, furnace men generally have found the material favorable for reduction.

As has been stated above the North Range has been developed to a far greater extent than the South Range. Explorations by means of churn and diamond drilling as well as through the underground operations of the few mines that have been opened up in this district indicate deposits of a sufficient extent and richness to prove attractive for exploitation in the near future. There has been indicated by the above work 110,000,000 tons of iron ore, the average analysis of which is slightly below 50 per cent of iron and includes no ore analyzing below 40 per cent of iron. Included in this estimate are 50,000,000 tons having an average analysis of 54.60 per cent of iron, containing no ore sampled and analyzed showing less than 50 per cent of iron.

There was a lull in the activities of the mines last year, the statement for a fiscal year ending June 30, 1922 showing that little mining had been done during the first nine months of the year. During the latter three months of the year, however, and during the summer and fall succeeding mining operations were resumed to a large extent and there was an augmented output. Showing the tendency towards expansion and improvement of the mining properties is the construction of an ore drying plant at the Sagamore mine operated by the John A. Savage Co. at Riverton. This plant crushes and screens ore, but is mainly intended for drying ore. It is the largest plant ever built.

The total number of mines in Crow Wing county is 45. Of this number only thirteen were in active operation during the last fiscal year, mentioned above. The companies which shipped ore last year are as follows:

the Rogers-Brown Ore Co., with two mines; the Inland Steel Co., with two mines; the Pennington Mining Co., with one mine; the Hillcrest Mining Co., the Merrimac Mining Co., the Whitemarsh Mining Co., the Gordon Mining Co., the Marquette Ore Co., the John A. Savage Co., Mahanomen Mining Co., and the Liberty Mining Co. The largest producers were the Inland Steel company, shipping a total of 311,002 tons of ore from both their underground and their pit mine. The second largest shipper was the Rogers-Brown Ore company, shipping 134,874 tons all from underground mines, and the third was the Hillcrest Mining company with 117,212 tons of ore shipped all from an open pit mine. Work at the John A. Savage mine was confined entirely to the stripping of surface dirt preparatory to mining operation. Both the Marquette Ore company and the Gordon Mining company, in addition to their mining operations did a great deal of this stripping work. A total of 741,427 tons of iron ore was shipped, and 861,427 cubic yards of stripping was removed. A total of 878 men were employed, distributed as follows: 324 men underground, 111 on the surface and 443 in open pit work.

The district has two railway lines, the Northern Pacific and the "Soo Line", both of which are in a fit condition to haul ore to the Lake Superior docks and at a very favorable rate.

The main advantage claimed for Cuyuna ores over ores from the Mesaba range is that of better physical structure, their use insuring freedom from flue-dust troubles in smelting. A modern blast furnace when driven to capacity on all Mesaba ore-mixture will probably entrain with the escaping gases not less than five per cent of the ore charged, even when operating smoothly with ore of average Mesaba range structure. During slips or periods of bad working, or when the finer mixture Mesaba ores are used, the dust losses may greatly exceed five per cent. After considering carefully the difference in structure between Mesaba and Cuyuna ores, it is found that ores from the Cuyuna range will successfully resist the entraining effect of the escaping gases in the blast furnace; moreover when worked with Mesaba ores, they will greatly assist in reducing the blast pressure and help to retain in the furnace that part of the finer Mesaba ore otherwise likely to be blown over. It is difficult to show in concrete figures just how much loss is occasioned directly by waste of part of the metallic contents of the charge as flue-dust, and indirectly by the more rapid deterioration of furnace and stove linings, together with the added cost to gas and blast mains and castings.

The South Range ores are well adapted chemically to the manufacture of foundry, gray forge, and basic pig iron. The impurities common to all iron ores, namely silica, alumina, phosphorous and manganese are reasonably uniform and not excessive.

It is generally agreed among furnace men that iron ores containing limonite and iron carbonate, as these ores do, will absorb carbon more readily in the blast furnace, due to the expulsion of water and carbonic acid in the heating and reducing zones, thereby opening additional channels for the reducing gases and effecting reduction throughout the charge. This feature promotes fuel economy and faster driving of the blast furnace.

Aside from a slightly higher silica content than is really necessary, and a consequently larger slag volume, there is no objectionable feature to this ore. It is now becoming necessary to consider the use of cleaner iron ores, and as the South tremely and intricately folded into a series of parallel anticlines mostly of low pitch but with steep dips. Throughout these folds, there have been intrusions of basic rocks. There has been considerable fracturing and minute faulting and there has been much re-cementing by quartz. Erosion has removed a great thickness of the slate member and thereby exposed the iron-bearing strata, making conditions favorable for concentration and the development of the ores at exposed surfaces. Weathering has greatly affected all exposed rocks. The deposits left by the glaciers exceeded in degree the erosion they accomplished and it is probable that only a small part of the ore bodies have been carried away.

Due to the geological structure the size of the ore-bearing bodies is very irregular. The average commercially valuable deposit is usually, however, limited to a half mile in length. The greatest width known of any one deposit is between four and five hundred feet. Such a width is exceptional and this is characteristic of the North Range deposits, the average width of which is anywhere from 100 to 200 feet. On the South Range 300 feet is the maximum width and the average width is in the neighborhood of 100 feet. The greatest depth known is 1,100 feet and is also an exception to the rule. Very much greater depths have been obtained throughout on the North Range than on the South. On the former it is a common occurrence to find commercial grade ores at a depth of 500 feet, but on the South Range conditions have not been determined so completely.

The Cuyuna ores are mostly of the hydrous and the silicious limonites of red, brown and black color, and when not very silicious the ores are earthy. Some of the ores are hematites, and these are characteristic of the North Range deposits. The brown and black ore are characteristic of the south range deposits, and these are more or less magnetic. The North Range also contains large areas of highly manganiferous ore. This latter fact is what renders the Cuyuna range distinctive as such quantities of manganiferous ores are not to be found elsewhere. In past years this fact has prevented development of the ore bodies of this section rather than helped it. The manufacturers of iron were bound by custom in the composition of their iron and this composition did not call for the use of manganiferous ores. They were loath to change their habits for something they knew nothing of and the success of which was uncertain in their minds. It has now been shown, however, that the presence of manganese in iron ore makes for a smoother furnace operation, acting as does a cathart on the system. As a small amount of the manganese stays in the pig iron, when the pig iron is later remelted and is passed through the rolling mill that operation is likewise facilitated. The manganese renders the metal more cohesive, preventing any of the pig iron from sticking to the rollers. Since this discovery there has been a great demand for manganiferous ore and has made possible the development of such deposits in the Cuyuna range. The largest tonnage of manganiferous ore in the world in any one mine is located at Riverton in the Sagamore mine. Altogether there are four open pits in the entire Cuyuna range where manganiferous ore is the principal product.

The ore bodies are usually encased in a varying amount of lean iron-bearing material, which usually grades into the barren phases of the Cuyuna slate strata or intrusives. The shape of the ore bodies excludes the idea that they were originally deposited in place contemporaneously with the enclosing rock. Their persistent occurrence near the erosion surface would seem to show a secondary development in the nature of a concentration by meteoric waters, and the fact that the iron and silica content varies with the depth is suggestive of a secondary enrichment. This alteration was caused by the percolation downwards of meteoric waters bearing oxygen which altered the iron carbonate with which they came in contact, precipitating the iron directly as the hydrated or non-hydrated iron oxide. The carbon dioxide was liberated, some of it going into solution together with silica which was being dissolved during the processes.

Due to the rock structure the underground method of mining will probably always be used, although this is naturally not the cheapest method of mining. In the development of the properties to date, however, there have been no great difficulties to overcome in reaching the ore bodies and the presence of water has not been bothersome to any unusual extent. Indeed some of the mines have been practically free from this usual accompaniment of underground operations. It does not seem to be likely that the district will become known other than a field for a medium grade of ore, but although the ore is not of the highest quality regarding its iron content, furnace men generally have found the material favorable for reduction.

As has been stated above the North Range has been developed to a far greater extent than the South Range. Explorations by means of churn and diamond drilling as well as through the underground operations of the few mines that have been opened up in this district indicate deposits of a sufficient extent and richness to prove attractive for exploitation in the near future. There has been indicated by the above work 110,000,000 tons of iron ore, the average analysis of which is slightly below 50 per cent of iron and includes no ore analyzing below 40 per cent of iron. Included in this estimate are 50,000,000 tons having an average analysis of 54.60 per cent of iron, containing no ore sampled and analyzed showing less than 50 per cent of iron.

There was a lull in the activities of the mines last year, the statement for a fiscal year ending June 30, 1922 showing that little mining had been done during the first nine months of the year. During the latter three months of the year, however, and during the summer and fall succeeding mining operations were resumed to a large extent and there was an augmented output. Showing the tendency towards expansion and improvement of the mining properties is the construction of an ore drying plant at the Sagamore mine operated by the John A. Savage Co. at Riverton. This plant crushes and screens ore, but is mainly intended for drying ore. It is the largest plant ever built.

The total number of mines in Crow Wing county is 45. Of this number only thirteen were in active operation during the last fiscal year, mentioned above. The companies which shipped ore last year are as follows; the Rogers-Brown Ore Co., with two mines; the Inland Steel Co., with two mines; the Pennington Mining Co., with one mine; the Hillcrest Mining Co., the Merrimac Mining Co., the Whitemarsh Mining Co., the Gordon Mining Co., the Marquette Ore Co., the John A. Savage Co., Mahnomon Mining Co., and the Liberty Mining Co. The largest producers were the Inland Steel company, shipping a total of 311,009 tons of ore from both their underground and their pit mine. The second largest shipper was the Rogers-Brown Ore company, shipping 134,874 tons all from underground mines, and the third was the Hillcrest Mining company with 117,212 tons of ore shipped all from an open pit mine. Work at the John A. Savage mine was confined entirely to the stripping of surface dirt preparatory to mining operation. Both the Marquette Ore company and the Gordon Mining company, in addition to their mining operations did a great deal of this stripping work. A total of 741,427 tons of iron ore was shipped, and 861,427 cubic yards of stripping was removed. A total of 878 men were employed, distributed as follows: 324 men underground, 111 on the surface and 443 in open pit work.

The district has two railway lines, the Northern Pacific and the "Soo Line", both of which are in a fit condition to haul ore to the Lake Superior docks and at a very favorable rate.

The main advantage claimed for Cuyuna ores over ores from the Mesabian range is that of better physical structure, their use insuring freedom from flue-dust troubles in smelting. A modern blast furnace when driven to capacity on all Mesabian ore-mixture will probably entrain with the escaping gases not less than five per cent of the ore charged, even when operating smoothly with ore of average Mesabian range structure. During slips or periods of bad working, or when the finer mixture Mesabian ores are used, the dust losses may greatly exceed five per cent. After considering carefully the difference in structure between Mesabian and Cuyuna ores, it is found that ores from the Cuyuna range will successfully resist the entraining effect of the escaping gases in the blast furnace; moreover when worked with Mesabian ores, they will greatly assist in reducing the blast pressure and help to retain in the furnace that part of the finer Mesabian ore otherwise likely to be blown over. It is difficult to show in concrete figures just how much loss is occasioned directly by waste of part of the metallic contents of the charge as flue-dust, and indirectly by the more rapid deterioration of furnace and stove linings, together with the added cost to gas and blast mains and castings.

The South Range ores are well adapted chemically to the manufacture of foundry, gray forge, and basic pig iron. The impurities common to all iron ores, namely silica, alumina, phosphorous and manganese are reasonably uniform and not excessive.

It is generally agreed among furnace men that iron ores containing limonite and iron carbonate, as these ores do, will absorb carbon more readily in the blast furnace, due to the expulsion of water and carbonic acid in the heating and reducing zones, thereby opening additional channels for the reducing gases and effecting reduction throughout the charge. This feature promotes fuel economy and faster driving of the blast furnace.

Aside from a slightly higher silica content than is usually necessary, and a consequently larger slag volume, there is no objectionable feature to this ore. It is now becoming necessary to consider the use of cleaner iron ores, and as the South

BUSINESS SEEKS THE EASIER ROAD

JULIUS KLEIN, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, says that Americans are losing their opportunity to gain world trade, and further, that they are failing to fill orders to the satisfaction of foreign buyers, with whom contracts have been made, and are losing the trade that had already been won.

This is most unfortunate because, when the time comes that domestic demand falls off, such markets will be needed to consume American products if American factories are to run. To go after markets during a slump in domestic demand as business did in 1920 and 1921, and then, as soon as home consumption calls for larger supplies and takes up most of the production, to fail to supply the customers that were anxiously sought during the time of depression, is a short-sighted policy.

After the war America was the wealthiest nation on earth and had the chance of becoming the world's money market, but this chance has been lost and London is again the money market of the world. Since the war, owing to unsettled conditions in Europe, America has had the opportunity of building up world markets for her goods but she is failing here also because business is taking the easier way.

If such opportunities are to be missed, there is no great value in building up a merchant marine for, unless a different attitude found expression in supporting the merchant marine, it too would be cast aside. Like the opportunities already named, the opportunity to carry the world's goods was open just after the war, but now Germany and Britain have got to the place where they will make a serious bid as ocean carriers.

America's wealth and prosperity may be acting as an inhibition preventing serious consideration of such opportunities as are presenting themselves to her people. Failure to use these opportunities may be regretted when it is too late, when what might have been secured without much competition will be won in a hard fight if won at all. With abundant resources America has not been required to struggle and has been largely sufficient unto herself, but that day is passing and her growing industries will demand an ever larger outlet for the goods produced.

POPPIES AS A SYMBOL

THE poppy will always be associated with the world war. Its relation to the struggle was decided by the splendid poem of the Canadian who wrote of Flanders fields where poppies blow, and made the men beneath the crosses, row on row, say that, if men broke faith with them, they would not sleep.

Poppy days call to remembrance those men who served bravely and died nobly, others who fought valiantly and were disabled in the struggle, and, yet others, who went in to do their bit and either came out of the battles without injury or were not called upon to go up to the front lines.

Poppies call to the attention of the public, the dead, the disabled and the able bodied men who came back to take their place in the front of the battles of peace time. The public has already proved that it is ready to buy these flowers that represent so much in service and sacrifice, and because the money raised by the sale of the poppies is devoted to the needs of the disabled or to organizations of ex-service men, the citizens of the United States buy all that are offered for sale.

When the ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary offer poppies to the citizens of Brainerd on Monday and Tuesday they will buy them in memory of those who died, for the assistance of those who were disabled or to aid the associations of the men who served. They cannot give to those who died, but in memory of those who died they will be ready to contribute to the needs of those who live.

BRYAN rejoices that he helped to write the platform, even though he was not elected. This seems like old times. Something must be done to appease a disappointed leader.

Dr. Eiche of Lincoln, Nebraska, has contributed four large crates of flowers to the county to be used in beautifying the court house grounds. The plants consist of geraniums, cannas, hollyhocks, marigolds, salvia, and several other varieties.

A large bed is being prepared directly in front of the main entrance to the building; and the plants set out under the direction of County Agent E. G. Roth.

Dr. Eiche is a member of the Nebraska colony which has summer cottages on Pelican lake. He is very much interested in the building up of this county and has contributed to several causes in this connection.

The lawn grass, which was sown some time ago on the court house square is rapidly making its appearance. The trees recently set out there are also getting along nicely. It is planned to make these grounds one of the beauty spots of the city.

FOREST FIRES

ARE THREATENING

NORTHERN WISCONSIN AND MINNESOTA DISTRICTS ARE IN PERIL

Duluth, May 28.—Forest fires in northern Wisconsin and northern Minnesota threatened today. The village of Gordon, near Whitefish lake, 35 miles south of Superior, is threatened by flames advancing from the south on a wide front. The Wisconsin village has a population of approximately 500. All able-bodied men are out fighting the advance of the flames.

Numerous summer cottages on Whitefish lake are believed doomed. Highway number 10 south of Superior is blocked by bad fires near Solon Springs. Highway number 11 is also blocked.

A fire at Tower, Minnesota, on the Iron range, was reported out of control with a strong wind blowing. No valuable property is endangered, although the fire is 3 miles wide.

A fire four miles south of Virginia was being fought under control, according to reports at noon.

Schasey settlement, a colony of Seventh Day Adventists south of Superior, was in danger from flames sweeping through an area which was not touched by forest fires last fall.

Telephone and telegraph wires are down between Superior, Ashland, Iron River, Brule, Gordon and Foxboro. Fires are raging in these areas.

Hundreds of autoists who motored to Ashland from the Twin Ports yesterday were cut off from their homes by the menace of fires. Others who attempted rescue work found the smoke almost impossible to get through. Some motorists escaped injury from the heat by wrapping wet blankets about themselves. Many cars and tires showed blisters from the heat.

Foresters and civilians fighting the advance of the flames view the situation as dangerous.

COX SAYS SITUATION MAY GROW SERIOUS

St. Paul, May 28.—State Forester W. T. Cox said that the forest fire situation in northern Minnesota is growing more serious.

Rangers and hundreds of volunteers under their direction are fighting hundreds of small blazes, incipient to danger because conditions are extremely bad, he said.

To go after markets during a slump in domestic demand as business did in 1920 and 1921, and then, as soon as home consumption calls for larger supplies and takes up most of the production, to fail to supply the customers that were anxiously sought during the time of depression, is a short-sighted policy.

After the war America was the wealthiest nation on earth and had the chance of becoming the world's money market, but this chance has been lost and London is again the money market of the world. Since the war, owing to unsettled conditions in Europe, America has had the opportunity of building up world markets for her goods but she is failing here also because business is taking the easier way.

If such opportunities are to be missed, there is no great value in building up a merchant marine for, unless a different attitude found expression in supporting the merchant marine, it too would be cast aside. Like the opportunities already named, the opportunity to carry the world's goods was open just after the war, but now Germany and Britain have got to the place where they will make a serious bid as ocean carriers.

America's wealth and prosperity may be acting as an inhibition preventing serious consideration of such opportunities as are presenting themselves to her people. Failure to use these opportunities may be regretted when it is too late, when what might have been secured without much competition will be won in a hard fight if won at all. With abundant resources America has not been required to struggle and has been largely sufficient unto herself, but that day is passing and her growing industries will demand an ever larger outlet for the goods produced.

POPPIES AS A SYMBOL

THE poppy will always be associated with the world war. Its relation to the struggle was decided by the splendid poem of the Canadian who wrote of Flanders fields where poppies blow, and made the men beneath the crosses, row on row, say that, if men broke faith with them, they would not sleep.

Poppy days call to remembrance those men who served bravely and died nobly, others who fought valiantly and were disabled in the struggle, and, yet others, who went in to do their bit and either came out of the battles without injury or were not called upon to go up to the front lines.

Poppies call to the attention of the public, the dead, the disabled and the able bodied men who came back to take their places in the front of the battles of peace time. The public has already proved that it is ready to buy these flowers that represent so much in service and sacrifice, and because the money raised by the sale of the poppies is devoted to the needs of the disabled or to organizations of ex-service men, the citizens of the United States buy all that are offered for sale.

When the ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary offer poppies to the citizens of Brainerd on Monday and Tuesday they will buy them in memory of those who died, for the assistance of those who were disabled or to aid the associations of the men who served. They cannot give to those who died, but in memory of those who died they will be ready to contribute to the needs of those who live.

Dr. Eiche of Lincoln, Nebraska, has contributed four large crates of flowers to the county to be used in beautifying the court house grounds. The plants consist of geraniums, cannas, hollyhocks, marigolds, salvia, and several other varieties.

A large bed is being prepared directly in front of the main entrance to the building; and the plants set out under the direction of County Agent E. G. Roth.

Dr. Eiche is a member of the Nebraska colony which has summer cottages on Pelican lake. He is very much interested in the building up of this county and has contributed to several causes in this connection.

FOREST FIRES ARE THREATENING

NORTHERN WISCONSIN AND MINNESOTA DISTRICTS ARE IN PERIL

Duluth, May 28.—Forest fires in northern Wisconsin and northern Minnesota threatened today. The village of Gordon, near Whitefish lake, 35 miles south of Superior, is threatened by flames advancing from the south on a wide front. The Wisconsin village has a population of approximately 500. All able-bodied men are out fighting the advance of the flames.

Numerous summer cottages on Whitefish lake are believed doomed. Highway number 10 south of Superior is blocked by bad fires near Solon Springs. Highway number 11 is also blocked.

A fire at Tower, Minnesota, on the Iron range, was reported out of control with a strong wind blowing. No valuable property is endangered, although the fire is 3 miles wide.

A fire four miles south of Virginia was being brought under control, according to reports at noon.

Schasey settlement, a colony of Seventh Day Adventists south of Superior, was in danger from flames sweeping through an area which was not touched by forest fires last fall.

Telephone and telegraph wires are down between Superior, Ashland, Iron River, Brule, Gordon and Foxboro. Fires are raging in these areas.

Hundreds of autoists who motored to Ashland from the Twin Ports yesterday were cut off from their homes by the menace of fires. Others who attempted rescue work found the smoke almost impossible to get through. Some motorists escaped injury from the heat by wrapping wet blankets about themselves. Many cars and tires showed blisters from the heat.

Foresters and civilians fighting the advance of the flames view the situation as dangerous.

COX SAYS SITUATION MAY GROW SERIOUS

St. Paul, May 28.—State Forester W. T. Cox said that the forest fire situation in northern Minnesota is growing more serious.

Rangers and hundreds of volunteers under their direction are fighting hundreds of small blazes incipient to danger because conditions are extremely bad, he said.

HOME OIL COMPANY

By R. KENNETH EVANS

ALL believe in co-operation and know that it is a great power for progress. By means of this spirit found in Brainerd a rapidly growing wholesaling concern has been established here to be an ever increasing asset to the city in the future.

The Home Oil company was organized in Brainerd in 1922 and it is in reality a home owned concern. This statement is born out by the fact that some $20,000.00 has been invested in the company by local people making possible its location here and adding another firm to Brainerd's growing list of industrial and wholesaling institutions. This $20,000.00 has been invested in debenture bonds and each bond holder draws a dividend from the local company's earnings quarterly, being given a yearly guarantee of six per cent. By the end of twenty-five years the bonds will be retired and the property will be wholly owned by the Home Oil company of Chicago. However, quarterly dividends will still be paid to the original bond holders. The development and the success of this company has been steady and consistent since its establishment.

The local station, which is located at the corner of Eighth and Maple streets, was constructed in 1922 and it is a modern structure in every respect. In construction it has the attractive new surface known as Kellastone over brick and is equipped with two automatic gasoline pumps and tanks with a combined capacity of 2,000 gallons. The station also is equipped with free air and water. Inside is a nicely furnished ladies' rest room and located near it is a free wash rack and an elevated grease rack.

With the large tourist traffic which is coming to Brainerd in increasing numbers each season such service is a distinct asset. The tourist public is largely a motorized public at the present time and conveniences for the supplying and care of their cars is something they demand from the towns in which they make their headquarters and Brainerd is distinctly becoming the headquarters for the tourist traffic of this section of the Ten Thousand Lakes region.

The Home Oil company handles the Deep Rock gasolines, oils and greases, refined by the Shaffer Refining company of Cushing, Oklahoma. The grade of gasoline being handled at the present time gives a test of sixty. Deep Rock gasoline is well known among motorists for its qualities of excellence. It insures easy starting on cold mornings and gives more life to any motor. It might be said that Deep Rock gasoline is liquid "pep." Each explosion means better, smoother firing and greater power, more mileage and less wear and tear on your motor. Deep Rock oils are made in various grades to suit your particular requirements. It merely takes one trial to become convinced of the superior quality of Deep Rock oil.

The local company plans soon to install another tank and pump to handle a special high test gasoline which will test between 62 and 64 and contains an unusually small amount of residue. This is the "super" gasoline.

The company runs two trucks for the city and country wholesale trade and one for the country trade within a radius of twenty miles. The wholesale business of this firm has been constantly increasing and it can confidently be expected to become much larger in the future. The Home Oil company specializes in careful, considerate service to its patrons. The policy adopted by this company is one that is based on sound business principles. It is in reality a home town company and is well deserving of the patronage of the people of Brainerd. J. M. Mraz is the local manager. Mr. Mraz is an enterprising business man and realizes the value of working in the interests of the city wherein he is located in order that his company in turn may be benefited.

Quality

HOME BAKERY

By R. KENNETH EVANS

THERE is something attractive and eye-compelling in the appearance of a cleanly and modern bakery. The delight of the thought of toothsome pastries and fresh bread is enhanced by spotless surroundings and attractive furnishings. To the casual visitor it is a focus of interest and affords a most favorable impression of the city. Too often in the cities outside of the larger centers of trade such an institution is entirely lacking and the people of the city are forced to rely on outside sources if they are to obtain bread and pastry of the best.

Not so in Brainerd. In the Home Bakery the city has a concern which is equal in its equipment to the bakeries of many larger places and in the quality of its products it is second to none.

Sanitation is a paramount feature in this bakery and the baking equipment is of the latest type, including a century mixer, a Universal bread moulder and a Hubbard oven with a capacity for 300 loaves at one time. The oven is fuel heated.

The well known "Laurel" loaf of white bread is the feature product of this bakery. The Home Bakery enjoys an extensive trade in this commodity not only in Brainerd but also in the trade territory about this city. This wholesale business is one which is steadily developing and the quality of the loaf will do much to further it. In addition to the "Laurel" loaf, this bakery makes rye, whole wheat and graham bread and a full line of such pastries as pies, cookies, doughnuts, cakes, rolls, buns, cream puffs and the like. This bakery is distinctive in the fact that it uses absolutely none of the substitutes ordinarily found in baker's products such as egg powder and many other ingredients which lower the cost of manufacture. The output of the Home Bakery is strictly a quality product and only the highest grade of flour obtainable is used in the baking of bread and the same is true of the cake flours used in the pastries.

The Home Bakery makes a specialty of fancy pastries and does a large business in special orders for special occasions. No pains have been spared to give the public of Brainerd the best in this line. The pastry cook is an expert in this profession and his confections and products have brought great fame to the Home Bakery. There is nothing in the line of pastry that the bakery is not prepared to turn out.

In the front room of the Home Bakery attractive and appetizing luncheons are served, a la carte. This is especially convenient for the business people who find it necessary to eat down town at noon. The luncheons are daintily served and stand the important test of making the patron desire to come a second time.

The Home Bakery is prepared to take orders for shipment of its products anywhere within the immediate trade territory and affords a service to the local people which may well be appreciated. Despite the high quality of bread shipped from the large bakeries of the cities, the loaves can never be as fresh as that which is to be obtained in the crisp and tasteful bread prepared here at home by the Home Bakery. As a most worthy home product the bread manufactured by this institution well deserves patronage by Brainerd people.

The Home Bakery is owned and managed by Mr. C. M. Olson, who employs experienced men who have had many years training in the baking trade and understand it from every angle. Mr. Olson is himself a skillful baker. This bakery has been under the present management for the last year and has made itself greatly popular with Brainerd people.

Cleanliness

HOME BAKERY

By R. KENNETH EVANS

THERE is something attractive and eye-compelling in the appearance of a cleanly and modern bakery. The delight of the thought of toothsome pastries and fresh bread is enhanced by spotless surroundings and attractive furnishings. To the casual visitor it is a focus of interest and affords a most favorable impression of the city. Too often in the cities outside of the larger centers of trade such an institution is entirely lacking and the people of the city are forced to rely on outside sources if they are to obtain bread and pastry of the best.

Not so in Brainerd. In the Home Bakery the city has a concern which is equal in its equipment to the bakeries of many larger places and in the quality of its products it is second to none.

Sanitation is a paramount feature in this bakery and the baking equipment is of the latest type, including a century mixer, a Universal bread moulder and a Hubbard oven with a capacity for 300 loaves at one time. The oven is fuel heated.

The well known "Laurel" loaf of white bread is the feature product of this bakery. The Home Bakery enjoys an extensive trade in this commodity not only in Brainerd but also in the trade territory about this city. This wholesale business is one which is steadily developing and the quality of the loaf will do much to further it. In addition to the "Laurel" loaf, this bakery makes rye, whole wheat and graham bread and a full line of such pastries as pies, cookies, doughnuts, cakes, rolls, buns, cream puffs and the like. This bakery is distinctive in the fact that it uses absolutely none of the substitutes ordinarily found in baker's products such as egg powder and many other ingredients which lower the cost of manufacture. The output of the Home Bakery is strictly a quality product and only the highest grade of flour obtainable is used in the baking of bread and the same is true of the cake flours used in the pastries.

The Home Bakery makes a specialty of fancy pastries and does a large business in special orders for special occasions. No pains have been spared to give the public of Brainerd the best in this line. The pastry cook is an expert in this profession and his confections and products have brought great fame to the Home Bakery. There is nothing in the line of pastry that the bakery is not prepared to turn out.

In the front room of the Home Bakery attractive and appetizing luncheons are served, a la carte. This is especially convenient for the business people who find it necessary to eat down town at noon. The luncheons are daintily served and stand the important test of making the patron desire to come a second time.

The Home Bakery is prepared to take orders for shipment of its products anywhere within the immediate trade territory and affords a service to the local people which may well be appreciated. Despite the high quality of bread shipped from the large bakeries of the cities, the loaves can never be as fresh as that which is to be obtained in the crisp and tasteful bread prepared here at home by the Home Bakery. As a most worthy home product the bread manufactured by this institution well deserves patronage by Brainerd people.

The Home Bakery is owned and managed by Mr. C. M. Olson, who employs experienced men who have had many years training in the baking trade and understand it from every angle. Mr. Olson is himself a skillful baker. This bakery has been under the present management for the last year and has made itself greatly popular with Brainerd people.

GIRL NEARLY DROWNED SUNDAY

Was Bathing in Rice Lake Near Lum Park Dock With Two Companions

WENT BEYOND HER DEPTH
Saved by Strangers Who Were Rowing Near By. Girl Revived on Beach

A serious accident was narrowly averted Sunday afternoon, when a fifteen year old girl, swimming beyond her depth, became frightened and barely escaped drowning.

The girl, whose name could not be learned, with two smaller girls were bathing in Rice lake near the Lum park dock about three o'clock when she swam out into deep water.

Becoming frightened, she cried for help and sank. A party of strangers were rowing in the near vicinity, and when the girl came up the first time they caught her, and took her to the pavilion, where first aid methods soon revived her.

Officials at the park advise that the water is still very cold and there is danger of being subjected to cramps. They ask that all swimmers bear this in mind. Only the prompt action on the part of those rowing saved the young lady Sunday.

A number of picnic parties were held on the park grounds Sunday and witnessed the near-catastrophe.

N. E. BRAINERD LEAGUE

Improvement Association Meets This Evening in the Lowell School Building

The Northeast Brainerd Improvement League holds an important meeting at 8 o'clock this evening in the Lowell school, and all residents of this section of the city are expected to be present.

One of the matters coming up at this meeting is that of assisting the park board in opening Lum park about June 1st.

It is hoped that the league may obtain sufficient property in Northeast Brainerd for a city park, and this will be taken up tonight.

Many matters of importance to those who live in Northeast Brainerd are discussed and acted upon at these meetings, and the league is accomplishing much good in this way.

IN MUNICIPAL COURT

2 Men Charged With Taking Automobile Without Owners Permission

Louis Brooks and Harry A. Shepard, charged with taking an automobile owned by John Walburn on Friday night, and driving it to Aitkin without the owner's permission, were arraigned in municipal court Monday morning.

The young men waived examination and were bound over to the district court. Their case will be heard at nine o'clock Tuesday morning by Judge B. F. Wright.

RUNAWAY DOES DAMAGE

A team owned by Louis Danielson, Northeast Brainerd, ran away during the noon hour Monday and did considerable damage to the front of the I. O. O. F. building.

Danielson, according to witnesses, left his team in the alley near the rear of the Garvey restaurant, when they became frightened and started to run. They came out of the alley onto Sixth street, headed across the street and crashed into the windows of the Louis Hohman store.

When the horses were rescued, their front feet had broken through the grating protecting the basement windows of the O. E. Hickethier barber shop beneath Hohman's.

Both large plate glass windows in the store were broken and two windows in the barber shop put out of commission. The horses were badly cut around their heads and front feet.

Ole Skillestad, barber employed by Mr. Hickethier, was sitting just beneath the windows when the accident occurred, and narrowly escaped injury.

NOTICE

We have now been out of business in Brainerd for a month and still have a large number of accounts due us. We wish to give our former patrons every opportunity to settle accounts before placing them in the hands of attorneys, and therefore ask that anyone knowing themselves to be indebted to us call at our old office and effect settlement at once.

'BRAINERD'S HALF CENTURY'

1993 Pounds of Paper Used, 242 Pounds Cover, Very Best

PRINTING IS NOW COMPLETED

Book Now in Bindery—Read Dispatch June 15 and Minneapolis Journal June 10
The printing of Brainerd's Half Century, a 144 page illustrated history of Brainerd, is completed. The book is now in the bindery.

Mr. Dillan states that he is highly pleased with the workmanship displayed in the printing of his book. Every picture shows up to advantage—140 of them. The work done upon the "cuts" or pictures in a book is a true index of the quality of printing done throughout.

The paper used in Brainerd's Half Century makes a pile 32 by 44 by 35 inches and weighs 1993 pounds. These dimensions are for the unprinted paper, and the weight given does not include the covers, which are of heavy Damascan, and weigh 242 pounds.

Why such heavy paper? Because "cuts" or pictures on one side of the page will not show through to the reverse side. This is the very best paper that it is practical to use.

Mention has been made of the fact that printing is done upon a sheet 32 by 44 inches in size, and that 16 pages are printed at one time, and that as soon as the ink has thoroughly dried, the sheets are turned over and the other side (16 pages) is printed.

The work in the bindery is equally interesting. These large pages are put through a cutting and folding machine which automatically and instantly cuts the sheets in two and folds each half sheet into a sixteen page section. When all the folding is done, the nine sections are sewed together and bound into an attractive book of 144 pages, size 7 1/2 by 10 3/4 inches.

Printing started on March 14 and was completed on May 19. The work of folding and binding began May 21 and will require a week or ten days longer.

The Dispatch of June 15 will mark the opening of the distribution of this book, one of the very few local histories in the Northwest. Also, it might be well to get a copy of the Minneapolis Sunday Journal on June 10 and read what the editor has to say about it.

"Brainerd's Half Century" is copyrighted, and copies will be filed in the Congressional Library at Washington and the Minnesota Historical Society.

Koskinen-Johnson

Miss Maybelle Johnson and Oscar A. Koskinen of Brainerd were united in marriage Friday, May 25th, in the Spalding hotel, Duluth, Rev. M. L.

Hostager, formerly of this city, officiating.

The bride was beautifully attired in a gown of white canton crepe and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Both of the contracting parties are well known in Brainerd. Miss Johnson is the daughter of Mrs. Hannah Johnson, 514 So. 5th street. She has been employed for a number of years as cashier at the G. F. Murphy dry goods store.

The groom is an excellent young man holding a responsible position in the offices of the store room at the Northern Pacific shops.

The happy couple will enjoy their honeymoon on the Messaba Range and in the Twin Cities, returning to Brainerd where they will occupy a home in Southeast Brainerd.

The Dispatch joins their many friends in offering congratulations.

Loomis-Engsberg

Word has just been received of the marriage of Miss Harriet Engsberg to A. J. Loomis, which event occurred on May 15th, at the home of her sister in Waukesha, Wisconsin.

Miss Engsberg was formerly secretary of the Child Welfare Board in Brainerd, where she has many friends. She was a member of the Business & Professional Women's club and active in other local organizations.

Mr. Loomis is an interior decorator and is interested in the firm of Baillie & Partridge, St. Paul.

The newlyweds will make their home for the summer at White Bear.

Bids For Moving Jail
The village council at a special meeting held Monday evening received bids for dismantling a part of the old county jail at Brainerd and setting up again in the village hall at Pequot. Only one bid was received from Winnie Goldsberry, for $75.00. This cage is made of iron, in pieces about three feet square and then riveted together. It is about 10 by 12 feet in size, with floors and ceiling of solid iron about 3-8 of an inch thick and walls of iron bars. The only cost will be of moving and setting up, as the county did not charge anything for it, as the old jail is to be removed.—Pequot Review.

BASEBALL DRAFT PROBLEM IS UP AGAIN

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, May 28.—After trying any number of methods to break up the opposition of the leading minor leagues to the draft, the major league club owners probably have found the solution of their problem in the rule prohibiting the transfer of any major league player to a league that will not accept the draft.

Discontent has found its way into the American Association and the Toledo and Indianapolis clubs, which are in great need of playing strength, may work up enough support before the end of the season to have the draft restored.

The Toledo and Indianapolis club formerly had working agreements with the New York Giants and they obtained many valuable players which John McGraw wanted to send out for development. Under the present conditions, McGraw cannot give them a lift, although he has many players that he would rather have being schooled in the association than on the bench of the champions.

The Pacific Coast League is also hearing complaint from several clubs that need help, and it seems probable that a big fight will be staged this winter at the latest.

The Class AA leagues took the stand first that they did not need help from the majors, and while it is probable that they can go along for a while, it is almost certain that they will eventually have to make a few concessions to build up their clubs with young players.

BASEBALL RETURNS

Baseball returns from the big leagues will be bulletined at Smucker's commencing today. These include the two big leagues and the American Association.

MILTON AND WILCOX

STAR AT SPEEDWAY

Indianapolis, May 28.—Tommy Milton and "Howdy" Wilcox, the H. C. S. team, took all honors at the speedway here in very different but equally sensational manners.

Tommy got out his hammer and wrecked another record for the course. In his Miller motored H. C. S., he made one lap of his official qualifying laps at 109.45 miles an hour. Four the four laps he averaged 108.17. With this speed went the pole position in the 500 mile race Wednesday.

"Howdy" in perhaps more startling manner, took the course in a downpour. All other drivers had long taken to cover from the rain when "Howdy" put in an appearance splashed around the course to get the feel of the slippery bricks.

Around the course roared "Howdy" carrying a good bow wave. The electric timing device clicked on, registering an average of 82.2 miles an hour for the first lap. For the four laps the little H. C. S. made 81 miles an hour.

Johnny Hines As a Comedian

There are many popular comedians in the screen world, but when it comes to a fun maker who brings out the true essence of the American Youth, Johnny Hines, the star in the new feature comedy, "Sure Fire Flint," billed at the New Park theatre, next Wednesday and Thursday is in a class by himself. Mr. Hines is the typical American boy. Having lived and been brought up in a small town where a youth is free to play boyish pranks as every true blooded American lad does, Johnny has instilled in all his pictures just that class of comedy that is real and free from stilted stunts. It is almost safe to say that Johnny Hines is the most popular comedian among the juvenile set of picture goers. His comedy is clean and natural. He plays just the sort of pranks any boy would play at a party, on his teacher, or on his boss. He is one of those fellows, who in his fun making, can take a joke upon himself as well as play it on the other fellow. In none of his pictures does he want to be the "whole show." He likes to see others get a chance. For that reason his manager, Charlie Burr, who produces all the comedian's pictures, surrounded him with a notable cast. They are men and women of note and reputation, and while Johnny is the star, he delights in seeing others share with him all that is worth while.

"THE FAST MAIL" WILLIAM FOX SPECIAL PRODUCTION

"Speed Counts" is the password at the Lyceum tonight, for they are showing that famous old time melodrama, "The Fast Mail," written by Lincoln J. Carter. It is a William Fox presentation, and has been directed with a keen eye for thrills by Bernard J. Durning. In the cast are Charles Jones, Eileen Percy and Adolph Menjou.

So fast does the action move that one has a hard time keeping up with the thrills. When the play was first produced on the stage the big scene came when "The Fast Mail" thundered across the stage in the title role. But the camera, handling the theme with a much broader scope, has managed to include, instead of the one thrill, one dare devil stunt after another, until the audience gasps. Charles Jones, who plays the role of the hero, Walter West, claims that he has no nerves, and this picture will surely uphold that statement.

They all like "USCO" United States Tires are Good Tires

PROBABLY half the motorists of America ride on Fabric Tires. By the hundreds of thousands they have stuck to "USCO" year in and year out. If there ever was a tested money's-worth "USCO" qualifies—and to spare. Made by the makers of U. S. Royal Cords.

MILTON AND WILCOX

STAR AT SPEEDWAY

Indianapolis, May 28.—Tommy Milton and "Howdy" Wilcox, the H. C. S. team, took all honors at the speedway here in very different but equally sensational manners.

Tommy got out his hammer and wrecked another record for the course. In his Miller motored H. C. S., he made one lap of his official qualifying laps at 109.45 miles an hour. Four the four laps he averaged 108.17. With this speed went the pole position in the 500 mile race Wednesday.

"Howdy," in perhaps more startling manner, took the course in a downpour. All other drivers had long taken to cover from the rain when "Howdy" put in an appearance splashed around the course to get the feel of the slippery bricks.

Around the course roared "Howdy" carrying a good bow wave. The electric timing device clicked on, registering an average of 82.2 miles an hour for the first lap. For the four laps the little H. C. S. made 81 miles an hour.

Johnny Hines As a Comedian

There are many popular comedians in the screen world, but when it comes to a fun maker who brings out the true essence of the American Youth, Johnny Hines, the star in the new feature comedy, "Sure Fire Flint," billed at the New Park theatre, next Wednesday and Thursday is in a class by himself. Mr. Hines is the typical American boy. Having lived and been brought up in a small town where a youth is free to play boyish pranks as every true blooded American lad does, Johnny has instilled in all his pictures just that class of comedy that is real and free from stilted stunts. It is almost safe to say that Johnny Hines is the most popular comedian among the juvenile set of picture goers. His comedy is clean and natural. He plays just the sort of pranks any boy would play at a party, on his teacher, or on his boss. He is one of those fellows, who in his fun making, can take a joke upon himself as well as play it on the other fellow. In none of his pictures does he want to be the "whole show." He likes to see others get a chance. For that reason his manager, Charlie Burr, who produces all the comedian's pictures, surrounded him with a notable cast. They are men and women of note and reputation, and while Johnny is the star, he delights in seeing others share with him all that is worth while.

"THE FAST MAIL" WILLIAM FOX SPECIAL PRODUCTION

"Speed Counts" is the password at the Lyceum tonight, for they are showing that famous old time melodrama, "The Fast Mail," written by Lincoln J. Carter. It is a William Fox presentation, and has been directed with a keen eye for thrills by Bernard J. Durning. In the cast are Charles Jones, Eileen Percy and Adolph Menjou.

So fast does the action move that one has a hard time keeping up with the thrills. When the play was first produced on the stage the big scene came when "The Fast Mail" thundered across the stage in the title role. But the camera, handling the theme with a much broader scope, has managed to include, instead of the one thrill, one dare devil stunt after another, until the audience gasps. Charles Jones, who plays the role of the hero, Walter West, claims that he has no nerves, and this picture will surely uphold that statement.

They all like "USCO" United States Tires are Good Tires

PROBABLY half the motorists of America ride on Fabric Tires. By the hundreds of thousands they have stuck to "Usco" year in and year out. If there ever was a tested money's-worth "Usco" qualifies—and to spare. Made by the makers of U. S. Royal Cords.
